

Connections with external businesses

In our business courses, there is a constant connection with real world businesses. We are always looking for guest speakers to interact with students. With your help we can offer 3rd year students internships and in turn provide a more hands on learning experience.

What can BAM do for you?

Our business students undertake a 200 hour internship project, making them readily available for any external business to take them on. As well as gaining work experience within the organization, they undertake a range of activities set by a host organisation.

We want to do more

Our students are always keen for gaining hands-on 'real world' experience, students are always readily available to take on any problem. Whether it's data collection, market research, or simply volunteering, our students are always ready for more!

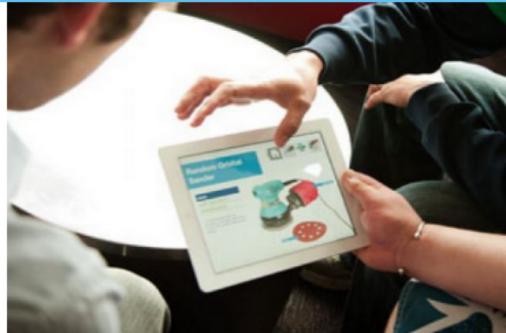

Lesley Smith, Head of College,
College of Enterprise & Development

lesley.smith@op.ac.nz
Phone +64 3 479 6037
Mobile 021 735 494

Learning by Doing

We encourage the students perspective of having a “know how, can do” type of attitude and encourage the employment of this perspective in real world situations. This hands-on approach delivers a well-rounded confident student into a professional working environment.

What we can do for you

Here at the BIT we offer IT services to anyone who needs it. Our students often work with charities and community groups to produce high quality solutions to community issues. These services help our community grow, and you the client will always be satisfied with the outcome.

Learning Together

We promote and practice collaborative learning between students and potential employers. We continue this by promoting open source software through the BIT and by inviting guest speakers to lectures. The result is a deeper and more durable learning experience for all.

Lesley Smith, Head of College,
College of Enterprise & Development

lesley.smith@op.ac.nz
Phone +64 3 479 6037
Mobile 021 735 494